Press Release – for immediate release

A brand-new stand-up show about the hair we want, the friends we have, and living the vast difference between virus and viral. Sindhu Vee is bringing the funny in Worthing this November.

Sindhu Vee is an award-winning comedian, writer and actor as seen on Live at the Apollo, QI, Feel Good, Have I Got News for You and Sex Education. She's stating her take on current affairs to riotous effect in this brilliant new stand-up performance, Alphabet, and will be bringing the house down at the Connaught Theatre on Thursday 11 November, 8pm.

Since swapping a career in investment banking for comedy, Vee has fast become one of the most exciting and sought-after talents on the UK circuit. In 2018 she took her debut show, Sandhog to the Edinburgh Fringe and was rightly nominated for the prestigious Edinburgh Comedy Award for Best Newcomer. From here she took the show to the Soho Theatre for two sold-out runs, and on a hugely successful 92-date UK tour.

In 2018, Vee wrote and hosted her own series, the fantastically titled Sindhustan on Radio 4. She returned to the station with Things My Mother Never Told Me (...About Lockdown) and The Guilty Feminist podcast with Deborah Frances-White, and regularly co-hosts the Child Labour podcast with Stuart Goldsmith for Radio X.

Vee also has a strong international fanbase and has performed to sold-out houses in India, and performed her stand up for NDTV's Rising Stars of Comedy. As such, she takes inspiration from all over the world and her work is infused with culture clash comedy and a totally unique collision of ideas. This merging of worlds is backed by a whole host of degrees from the University of Delhi, University of Oxford, University of Chicago and McGill University. In other words, she's more than qualified to take on a crowd with her smart, acerbic wit, and we can't wait to see it in person.

Sindhu Vee is performing Alphabet at the Connaught Theatre on Thursday 11 November, 8pm. Tickets are available from £18. For more information on this or any of the events, visit www.wtam.uk or call the WTM Box Office on 01903 206 206.
