Press Release – for immediate release

BBC Radio 4's cop-turned-comedian Alfie Moore is coming to Worthing for his hilarious new stand-up show, Fair Cop Unleashed!

Cop turned comedian Alfie Moore, star of his hit BBC Radio 4 comedy series, 'It's a Fair Cop', brings his latest stand-up tour show Fair Cop Unleashed to Worthing's Pavilion Theatre Atrium on Wednesday 29 June 2022 at 7:30pm.

The show, based on real-life events, allows the audience to relive with him the thrilling ups and downs of the night a mysterious clown came to town and more than one life ended up in the balance. Alfie concedes: 'It was the most frightened I have ever been in my police career and at the time no laughing matter' – but this show certainly is!

The story highlights the constant personal danger of being a police officer but also the outrageously funny things that cops experience. Enjoy Alfie's unique brand of police-based humour hilariously woven together with his personal insights into his life on the front-line of the police force.

Alfie Moore is a veteran of the Edinburgh Fringe Festival with his critically acclaimed sell-out shows including I Predicted a Riot, The Naked Stun and A Fair Cop Stands Up. He has toured his own solo shows nationally and internationally and also previously supported Rhod Gilbert, Sarah Millican, Russell Kane and Milton Jones on their national comedy tours.

Prior to that, Alfie recently retired after more than 20 years' service with Humberside Police. His roles included front-line response, drugs squad, public protection team, Neighbourhood Sergeant and Detective Sergeant specialising in domestic violence and vulnerable adults.

Now, Alfie uses comedy as a powerful voice to raise awareness of topical policing issues including writing and performing his own BBC Radio 4 comedy series It's a Fair Cop; A seventh series of this very successful show is due to air in Autumn 2022.
